Excerpt: . . . than in cold, and forms fine, radiating crystals, resembling those of wavellite. Silver mctasulphobenzoate,  $C_7H_4S_05Ag_2 H_2O$ , crystallizes in yellow prisms which readily dissolve. Normal ethyl mctasulphobenzoate,  $CrH_4S_05(C. 2H_6)_2$ , is prepared from the chloride of the acid and absolute alcohol, and forms a thick liquid which has a faint ethereal odour, and decomposes on heating. It is soluble in water, and its solution decomposes when heated into alcohol and the acid. 1 Ann. Chnn. Pharm. clxxviii. 275. Barth, ibid, cxlviii. 33. s Otto, ibid, exxii. 155. Acid ethyl mctasulphobenzoate or Ethyl metasulphobenzoic acid,  $C_7H_5S_06. C_2H_6$ . The ammonium salt of this acid,  $C_7H_4S_05 (NH_4). C_2H_6$ , is obtained by passing ammonia into an alcoholic solution of the normal ether or by the action of alcoholic ammonia on the chloride. It crystallizes in large, four-sided, transparent tablets. If the ammonia be precipitated with platinum chloride, and the excess of platinum removed by sulphuretted hydrogen, a solution of the free acid is obtained; its salts crystallize well and are readily soluble. Its constitution is probably represented by the former of the two following formulae:  $SO_3H Xsoq. cjhj C, H_4 C_6H C_02. C_2H_5 C_02H$  Metasulphobenzoyl chloride,  $C_7H_4S_03C_12$ , is obtained by heating the dry acid with phosphorus pentachloride; the phosphorus oxychloride is then distilled off and the residue washed with water. It is a thick, oily liquid, which has a faint but unpleasant odour, and decomposes on distillation into sulphur dioxide and metachloroberizoyl chloride. The latter is also formed when the...
