Up to that time he had been known as Hiram Ulysses, or 11. Ulysses Grant. On a trunk he was to take to West Point the maker, after the fashion of those days, formed three large initials with brass-headed nails. When he saw these, and realized what the cadets would do with the letters H. U. G., Grant changed the order of his given names and registered at West Point as Ulysses H. Grant. Meanwhile, Congressman Hamer, in his appointment papers, had guessed at Grant's middle letter, and knowing that his mother was a Simpson made it S. and it was entered in this way on the records of the War Department. Learning of the trouble and the delay which a correction would involve, young Grant said, so let it be, and without further opposition to fate or to friends he settled down to live with the name which he was to place far up at the top among those his country delights to honor Ulysses Simpson Grant. Concerning his smoking habits, General F. D. Grant tells us that his father was an occasional smoker only until the Battle of Fort Donelson. At that time he visited one of the War vessels to call on Admiral Foote, who had been wounded. The Admiral gave the General a cigar. He had hardly lit it when he received an urgent summons to come ashore and meet an attack. He hurried to the front with the cigar in his mouth, and became so engrossed in the struggle that he kept it...
